Bloodthirsty Brooklynites Eager to prof. Snow's Plan to Exterminate Chinch Eugs by Epidemic.

An Entomological Benefactor of the Farmer and City Housekeeper.

Through the persistent efforts of Irof. F. H. Snow, the Kansas State Entomologist, a mos wonderful scientific discovery has teen mide, which to the householder as well as to the country farmer, is equally if not more impor tant than Dr. Koch's discovery of the tubercu osis lymph and Pasteur's hydrophobia cure.

Like each of his famous European scientific onfreres, Prof. Snow is an able and discrimin ting bacteriologist: but instead of directing hi efforts towards the bacilli and microbes that prey upon the human body, he has made study of the minute germs that attack a cer tain member of the insent tribe-the chinci

The Professor has not worked through lov for the chinch bug and has no intention of employing the knowledge he has acquired with so much labor to ameliorating that insect's condition or in any way aiding it in its ught against its deadly natural enemies.

On the contrary, he has reversed the procerses of Drs. Koon and Pasteur, and instead of trying to breed a race of cultured and attenuated microbes, which shall ease the sui ferings of the afflicted chinch, he has found a method by which the hostile bacilli can be envered ten times more deadly in their warfare upon the chinch bur.

Now he proposes to turn them loose in the annihilating and exterminating the famou old-time enemy. The method by which this anti-chinch but
